Pentagon officials say the North Vietnamese have built a larger military base at Khe Sanh, South Vietnam, than even the U.S. had there when the U.S. Marines spent months outlasting a Communist siege in 1968. The Pentagon Monday released this aerial photograph of the recent North Vietnamese buildup in the vicinity. (UPI)

Threatt denies murder; conflicts in testimony

BULLETIN

Vernon Threatt, 19-year-old accused murderer of a LaMonte man, was found not guilty by a jury in Cole County Circuit Court at about 2:50 p.m. Tuesday, it was learned from the Cole County Circuit Clerk's office.

By JACK SCHICHT

Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

JEFFERSON CITY — A confident and calm Vernon Threatt, testifying for 45 minutes in his own defense in a first-degree murder trial here, answered with an emphatic "No, sir," when asked by his attorney if he had tied Otha Brown, LaMonte, to a tree and robbed him. Brown, 71, owner of the Dairy Isle drive-in, was found dead and tied to a tree near LaMonte in early February. He died of exposure.

The 19-year-old Threatt appeared calm during his questioning and never hesitated in giving his answers. Threatt and his girl friend, Louvon Bowen, Lexington, were the only witnesses to take the stand Tuesday morning before Cole County Circuit Judge Byron Kinder.

Miss Bowen testified she saw Threatt at a dance Friday night, Feb. 2, at Whiteman AFB and next saw him again around noon Saturday in Kansas City. She said she gave him $60 which she had received from Threatt's mother in Cleveland.

Miss Bowen also said she was with Threatt in Kansas City Saturday and Sunday, Feb. 3 and 4.

On Monday, testimony from two key witnesses revealed a glaring contradiction in the nine-hour first-day session of the trial.

Maurice Dunlap, LaMonte, testifying for the prosecution, said that he drove Threatt from a LaMonte apartment to Whiteman AFB Saturday morning, Feb. 3 and said Threatt told him "he had robbed Mr. Brown and tied him up."

But a star witness for the defense, Reginald Green, a former Whiteman airman, said he drove Threatt from the same apartment, at 1016 South Main, LaMonte, to Kansas City on the same Saturday morning. Both Threatt and Miss Bowen, in their testimony Tuesday, said they were in Kansas City Feb. 3 and 4.

A contradiction also arose in Dunlap's 30-minute testimony. He said at Threatt's preliminary hearing March 19 in Pettis County Magistrate Court that he drove Threatt to a "four-way stop" outside Whiteman and left him off. He said he also saw a man named David Woods at the base at that time. Monday night, however, Dunlap said he didn't see Woods, but another former airman named Ledell Reese, Woods and Reese testified that they did not see Dunlap. Both men were renting the apartment Threatt was reported to be at on the morning of Feb. 3. The apartment is owned by Mary E. Jones, New York, and Brown collected the rent for her.

Dunlap also admitted, when questioned by Eugene Bushmann, Jefferson City, Threatt's attorney, that a statement he gave authorities soon after Brown's body was found, contained contradictory testimony. Dunlap claimed he was "under pressure" at the time. However, he insisted he heard Threatt say he robbed Brown and tied him up.

Dunlap also said Monday that he did not pursue the details of what Threatt told him because he didn't know Threatt "all that well and didn't want to make a mistake and get him in trouble."

Showing no sign that he was under pressure, Threatt testified Tuesday he enlisted in the Air Force in May, 1972, was stationed in Texas for several months and was then sent to Whiteman, where he was discharged Jan. 12, 1973. He was discharged for non-compatibility, cross-examination revealed.

According to his testimony, Threatt was drinking with a couple of friends Friday

Warrensburg fire probe is ordered

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Public Service Commission announced today it has ordered an investigation into Monday's fire at the city-owned asphalt plant in Warrensburg.

The plant was heavily damaged by an early morning explosion and fire. A second blast followed when a four-inch gas line leading into the plant blew up.

Fire Chief Dick Stewart said he believed the first explosion, in a small storage building, was caused by an accumulation of natural gas. However, a spokesman for the Gas Service Co. said Monday night the blast had not been caused by a gas leak.

Larry Nichols, PSC investigator, was in Warrensburg today to interview representatives of the city, fire department and gas company.

London suffering from bomb jitters

LONDON (AP) — Police sealed off the chamber of the House of Commons today after a suspected terrorist bomb was discovered in the building.

London, hit by 30 explosive devices in the last 10 days, was suffering a bad case of the jitters and the city was on a tense bomb alert.

Scotland Yard reported 360 calls in five hours for help to deal with suspicious-looking packages — more than one call a minute. By noon, an estimated 30 calls had been eliminated as false alarms.

Police, who believe the bombs are the work of the Irish Republican Army which is fighting to drive Britain from Northern Ireland, warned more bombs were expected.

First reports of the Parliament find indicated the suspected cigarette pack bomb was spotted by a bomb-detecting device in a lobby near the chamber. But some experts believed tin foil lining in the pack could have activated the detector.

Some of the bombs planted in London have been hidden in cigarette packs. These were incendiary devices and few ignited.

Police took no chances and halted all tours of the building. Parliament is currently in recess, and no legislators were believed to be in the Commons, the lower house of the British Parliament.

No general alert or evacuation was ordered for the centuries-old building, long considered a prime target for terrorist bombers.

The rash of bombs in Britain spread to the British Embassy in Paris today after hitting the Washington embassy Monday.

The Foreign Office said a bomb had been delivered to a member of the British Embassy staff in the French capital. In Paris the embassy said the device was a letter bomb mailed in Britain and had been turned over to French police. It was intercepted before it could explode and no damage was caused.

As bomb reports continued to increase, British Prime Minister Edward Heath flew to Northern Ireland for talks with political and community leaders. He was met at the Royal Air Force base near Belfast by Northern Ireland administrator William Whitelaw.

In London big notices and police loudspeaker messages warned office workers as soon as they stepped off their trains that they could be the target for guerrilla bombers.

Police announced through newspapers and television that any of millions of items of mail accumulated over the long British holiday weekend could be letter bombs from suspected Irish extremists.

"This is a desperate situation," Chief Supt. Roy Habershon of Scotland Yard's bomb squad declared. "This thing is not over yet, we are sure."

Security precautions were strengthened today in three danger areas:

—London, where three days of mail was being delivered after the long end-of-summer holiday weekend.

—Belfast, the capital of Northern Ireland, where Prime Minister Edward Heath was beginning a two-day visit.

—British diplomatic missions overseas. A mail bomb Monday blew off a hand of a woman employee at the British Embassy in Washington.

Although there have been few serious injuries, the series of more than 30 letter bombs and incendiary devices since Aug.

18 is the longest wave of terror in England blamed on the IRA.

Most of the bombs failed to go off, were defused or did little damage. The most seriously injured were a secretary at the London Stock Exchange—who suffered facial, arm and leg injuries Friday—and a worker in the bank of England who lost a hand Saturday. Both opened letter bombs.

The earlier bombings in England blamed on the IRA were one-day attacks: a bomb at the Aldershot army base near London that killed seven persons last year and bombs in London at the Old Bailey criminal court and the ministry of agriculture on March 8 that killed one man and injured 200 people.

In the past, the IRA has generally been quick to claim responsibility for attacks in both Ireland and England. But this time the guerrilla command has remained silent, raising speculation that the attacks are the work of a radical group that has broken away from the IRA.

Police fear that the campaign will spread to other English cities.

Election for SFCC expansion unlikely

An October bond election for expansion at State Fair Community College now appears unlikely due to a statewide voter registration act which will take effect Sept. 28, it was learned at a Monday meeting of the college's board of trustees.

The trustees had earlier indicated willingness to hold a bond election in October to help finance construction of permanent SFCC facilities, but has now learned that a legal time factor will not allow such action.

Under the new voter registration act, all voter registration books must be closed nearly five weeks before any election may be held. Since the law takes effect Sept. 28, a date in early November would be the earliest the election could be held, according to SFCC President Fred Davis.

"This would put us up late in the fall and eliminate the possibility of an October vote," Davis said. He also said he felt that at least one and half months would be needed to help boost voter registration and make the public aware of issues involved in the proposed building expansion.

Later the board decided to set aside half of the Mamie McCormick estate to be used for consultant services in the planning of permanent facilities. Davis said the estate, totaling about $12,000 or $13,000, could be divided equally among needed consultant services and other capital improvements.

The board approved the measure with the stipulation that some form of tribute be later paid to Miss McCormick. Income from the estate has not yet been included in the budget, it was learned.

Miss McCormick, a native Sedalian, died here Jan. 25, 1972. She was a graduate of both Central Missouri State Teacher's College and the University of Missouri. She taught in training schools in both Kentucky and Oklahoma prior to retiring and returning to Sedalia.

The board then heard from William Grossmiller, new director of business affairs, who revealed a revised budget with total estimated expenditures of $2,208,275. Income will amount to $2,213,112 this year as compared to only $1,666,702 for last year, it was reported.

Grossmiller indicated that the only significant change in the budget would be allowing approximately $3,000 more toward paving a parking lot and completing building additions than had originally been anticipated. Grossmiller told the board he would have other minor budget changes for consideration at their next meeting.

Dr. Joyce Fielding, dean of student personnel, informed the board that enrollment at the junior college for the coming year should represent a "slight increase" over last year. Dr. Fielding said that about 120 students-to-be completed the Missouri College Placement Test Monday. Last year's enrollment figure was 985, according to Davis.

On the recommendation of Davis and Dr. Fielding, the board approved school calendars for the next two years. Dr. Fielding indicated that such action will be helpful in allowing servicemen to seek "early outs" in order to attend college.

Approval was also given for hiring 48 faculty members for the coming year. Included among those requiring approval were instructors for various night courses at the college.

Eagleton blasts Nixon at MFA farm dedication

(Democrat-Capital Service)

MARSHALL—Addressing approximately 1,400 farmers and businessmen from across the state Monday morning, Sen. Thomas Eagleton said the Nixon administration's decision to delay mandatory fuel allocations for a month or more could seriously endanger their harvest operations this fall.

Speaking at the dedication of the Missouri Farmer's Association (MFA) research farm, approximately seven miles south of here, Eagleton went on to voice his concern over what he termed the "desperate shortage of propane gas which farmers use for drying grain and home heating." Some distributors, he said, had cut back supplies by as much as 50 per cent despite an expected heavy increase in demand this fall and winter.

Eagleton, who has introduced legislation authorizing the administration to allocate scarce petroleum products, indicated he was particularly displeased with a statement made recently by President Nixon's energy advisor, John Love, who indicated that voluntary allocation actions by various companies have been successful.

"The plain fact is that the present voluntary program is a colossal bust," Eagleton said. "Even companies which initially had cooperated with the program have thrown up their hands at having to carry the ball for companies which have refused to go along with the guidelines."

The Senator indicated he based his beliefs for the need of a government-regulated allocation program on the complaints he has received from across the state.

"While the administration studies this matter further, farmers go without enough fuel to harvest and dry crops, transit companies and other vital governmental services face cutbacks in operation and workers, loss of jobs," Eagleton said.

After Eagleton's address, the dedication ceremonies continued with the unveiling of a large wooden sign bearing the MFA crest and brief statement of the research farm's purpose.

MFA President Fred V. Heinkel told The Democrat-Capital that the 1,176-acre experimental farm "has been in the making for at least 20 years."

The primary purpose of the farm, Heinkel explained, is to conduct "applied research" as opposed to "basic research," which he said is currently being conducted by University of Missouri agricultural specialists.

"In other words," Heinkel said, "the basic researchers develop the new animal breeds and plant varieties. We are chiefly concerned with experimenting to see which of these new developments and methods are most suitable for Missouri farming."

"It will really reach out through the entire state because the results will become available to all MFA members," Heinkel continued. "Once an improved technique or variety is tested out correctly, you will soon see it explained or see the particular product on sale in MFA stores across the state."

In addition to plants and field crops, it was learned the farm is also the center of extensive research in cattle and hog-raising operations, all designed to refine old techniques, experiment with new ones and hopefully arrive at improved acceptable new programs.

A tour of the farm revealed, among other things, an anaerobic and aerobic sewage lagoon system in which waste water is treated and recycled for drinking by swine. Also included at the farm are feeder pig houses, cattle handling facilities and patchwork-like patterns of various legume and grass plots which all combine to make the farm a prototype of modern agricultural technology.

Although the farm has been in operation for nearly three years, dedication ceremonies were not held until Monday because "we wanted to have some definite results to show the people," one MFA spokesman said. Even now, another spokesman indicated, the farm is not yet 100 per cent utilized.

"We've got about 300 acres of commercial corn which we haven't used yet," he said. "However, it will just be a matter of time before we do."

Hostages still held in vault by convicts

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Stockholm police today drilled more holes in the ceiling of the downtown bank vault in which two convicts were holding three women and a man hostage for the sixth day.

Describing their latest strategy as "Operation Swiss Cheese," the police said they would limit the freedom of movement of gunman Jan-Erik Olsson, a 32-year-old bank robber, and Clark Olofsson, a life-terminer for murder, by exposing them to police sharpshooters. They hoped this pressure eventually would force the men to surrender.

The strategy was not an immediate success. Instead a shot was fired from the vault through one of the new holes, and the bullet went through a policeman's hand and injured his jaw. But his condition was not serious.

He was the second casualty of the siege. Olsson last Thursday wounded another policeman in the hand.

Police spokesmen refused to confirm or deny a report that at least one of the women in the vault had been raped, and one spokesman suggested that Olsson might have given out such a report "to put the police under extra pressure."

Police sources said the oldest of the three women, 31-year-old Birgitta Lundblad, the mother of two small children, had been raped repeatedly. The sources would not say whether the two other women also had been sexually assaulted.

Police Commissioner Kurt Lindroth described Olsson and Olofsson as "human beasts." One police official said what was happening in the vault was "the worst we have experienced ever."

The police bugged the 19-by-40-foot vault and were listening in.

The authorities said they had no contact Monday with the hostages. But Police Supt. Aake Aakesson said that, "as far as we can judge, they seem to be in a relatively fair condition under the circumstances."

Olsson, a safecracker who escaped from prison earlier this month, seized the four hostages and holed up with them in the Kreditbanken last Thursday after the police interrupted his attempt to hold up the bank.

UFO story is related by Phillips

"The sighting of Unidentified Flying Objects is not confined to this country, for they have been seen in most every country of the world, including the Soviet Union," Ted Phillips, special communications coordinator for an organization known as Mutual UFO Network, told members of the Rotary Club at Bothwell Hotel at noon Monday.

Phillips, a Sedalia employee by the Missouri State Highway Department, is recognized in this area as an authority on reported UFO landing traces due to his continuing study of several years on this subject.

UFO sighting reports are on the increase, according to Phillips. He said that sightings reports he receives show the following: moving lights in sky, radar-visual sightings, daylight disc sightings, close encounters near the ground, close encounters on the ground and visible, physical traces from the landings. After his talk he displayed several slides showing the parched earth where sighted landings had been made in the Missouri-Kansas area.

The speaker was introduced by Bill Hopkins, general program chairman. In other club activity, Robert Phillips, club president, called on Larry Melton, Scott Joplin Ragtime Festival chairman, who extended an invitation to all members to purchase tickets to the Max Morath concert to be held at 8 p.m. Sept. 4 at the Missouri State Fair Coliseum as a forerunner of festival activities.

Bill Arnold presented two requests on behalf of the club's board of directors for a donation of $75 for sponsorship of a Girl's Khoury Soccer League team and $200 for a scholarship for one student to State Fair Community College. Both proposals received unanimous membership approval.

Dr. William Monsees, rural-urban committee chairman, presented his guest, Russell McFatrieh, a farmer-dairyman residing 3 miles south of Sedalia. Dr. Monsees reported his committee would have as a club guest each month a farmer from the Sedalia area.

Other guests presented by Gerald Cherry were Lewis Schultz, a Warrensburg Rotarian and Ken Stockard, a Lee's Summit Rotarian who was a guest of Walter Savio, and Bob Hoskins, Sedalia, a guest of Bill Hopkins.

Tentative coal rules announced

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has acted to block coal-burning industries from switching to scarce petroleum fuels needed for home heating.

Power plants and other coal-burners would have to continue using coal for at least a year under tentative regulations announced Monday by White House energy chief John Love.

Before the regulations are made final, a public hearing will be held Sept. 6-7 at the Interior Department, Love said.

He said the action, the first significant use of President Nixon's authority to impose mandatory allocation of fuels, was an effort to ease a serious home heating fuel shortage expected this winter.

Exempted from the proposed rules would be coal-burning industries, required to switch fuels to meet public health requirements of federal air quality standards.

P.N. Gammelgard, senior vice president for public and environmental affairs, called the new regulations "reasonable as well as necessary."

Energy officials have complained that the recent trend among power plants to substitute oil for coal was worsening the fuel crisis.

Editor for Kansas City Star dies

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The former public affairs director and Sunday editor of the Kansas City Star, John T. Alexander, died Monday at suburban Shawnee Mission Hospital. He was 64.

Alexander suffered a stroke Sunday at his home in Shawnee, Kan.

His career as a reporter, feature writer, photographer, poet and editor at The Star spanned 30 years.

He was born in Kentucky and lived in Marshall, Mo., four years before moving to Independence, Mo., as a young man. He became The Star's Independence correspondent in the late 1930s following his graduation from the University of Kansas.

Sedalia recreation director is introduced at meeting

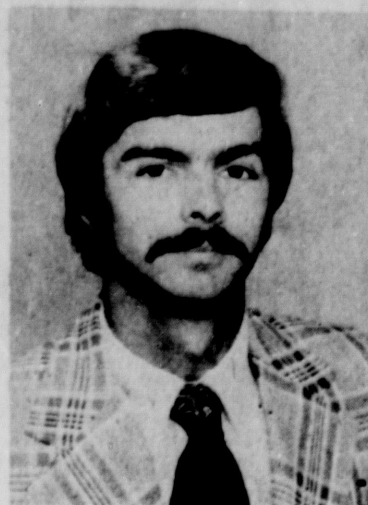

Sedalia's first recreation director and his wife met with members of the Park Board and their spouses Monday night at the Holiday Inn at a dinner and reception.

Roscoe Righter, 23, who started work here Monday, was hired by the Park Board July 25, and was originally slated to start work Sept. 1.

Righter said in remarks after the dinner that he saw no reason why the recreation program in Sedalia couldn't boom.

"On my first visit to Sedalia, I was amazed at the recreation facilities," Righter said. "Five parks for a town of 25,000 is good."

Three major groups for which Righter wants to improve recreation facilities include women, the aged and the handicapped.

"Our first year will be spent getting the citizens to know we are here, to get them interested," he said.

Righter said he plans to start arts and crafts classes immediately, and foresees expanded city leagues in all sports.

A graduate of the School of the Ozarks, Righter married the former Katie Ewing, Springfield, Aug. 11. Mrs. Righter said the last month has been very busy, between finishing school, getting married and finding a place to live in Sedalia.

In addition to a degree in physical education from the School of the Ozarks, Righter has also done graduate work at the University of Missouri-

Columbia in recreation and park administration.

Righter said he only lacks completing his thesis for his master's degree, and hopes to finish that sometime this winter.

Although this is his first job as a recreation director, Righter said he has spent the last six summers working in various recreation programs, including this summer, which he spent with the Springfield recreation department.

Righter said he plans to work closely with the Sedalia public schools in developing recreation programs here.

"A lot of cities don't work with the schools," Righter said. "The Columbia recreation department works with the Columbia schools, and they are able to have many programs neither one could afford alone."

Even though he said he is pleased with the park situation at present, Righter said he felt the city should acquire more park land as soon as feasible, because as the city grows, so will its needs.

An office for Righter has been created in Convention Hall, Liberty Park, next to the office of Jack Coats, park superintendent.

Righter will be paid an annual salary of $8,500, plus a $60 monthly car allowance.

Turkey farmers enjoy strong summer market

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Turkey farmers, expected to produce a record 132 million birds this year, are enjoying a strong market through the summer months as consumers search for lower-cost alternates to beef and pork.

Despite larger production, supplies of dressed turkeys in storage on Aug. 1 were 9 per cent less than last year, according to an Agriculture Department report on cold storage inventories.

Producers are expected to turn out 2 per cent more turkeys than the 129.1 million grown last year, the previous high, says the department.

Minnesota, the leading producer, expects to raise 23 million turkeys, up 10 per cent from 1972, according to the Crop Reporting Board. California, however, will have a decline of 2 per cent to less than 17.3 million.

Despite the over-all larger production, USDA experts say prices paid to producers have remained strong. In July, according to the department, live turkeys nationally brought growers 33.8 cents per pound, up nearly three cents from last spring and about 12 cents more than last summer.

Per person consumption of turkey has increased steadily, from 6.1 pounds of ready-to-cook meat in 1960 to 9.1 pounds last year. With the larger output, officials say a further rise is expected for 1973.

Winner of Nobel Prize says his life threatened

By FRANK CREPEAU
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — Nobel Prize novelist Alexander Solzhenitsyn, in a rare and bluntly outspoken interview with two Western newsmen, says his life has been threatened. He says that, if he is imprisoned or killed, "the main part of my works will be published."

The world-celebrated author, whose works are banned in the Soviet Union, said he and his family have received warnings and "if I am declared killed or suddenly mysteriously dead," the world could conclude that "I have been killed with the approval of the KGB or by it."

The KGB is the Soviet security police organization. Solzhenitsyn, 54, is the author of such famed novels as "The First Circle," "Cancer Ward" and "August 1914." He won the 1970 Nobel Prize for literature, but authorities prevented him from receiving it in his homeland.

The author was interviewed by The Associated Press and Le Monde of Paris. He accepted written questions and wrote out answers to those he chose to respond to.

The bearded writer, dressed in an open-necked shirt and slacks, was friendly and animated as he discussed developments that have convinced him the cause of individual freedom in the Soviet Union is at a low ebb.

Some other main points of Solzhenitsyn's statements: —What he calls "the main part of my works" is as yet unpublished.

—He will continue publishing his books in the West. Now that the Soviet Union has signed the international copyright convention, he also will give his works to "samizdat," the clandestine "self-publishing" system used by Soviet dissenters.

—He will further defy officialdom by moving to Moscow to live this winter, despite denial of a permit.

—He wanted particularly to speak out in defense of the noted physicist, Andrei D. Sakharov, a prominent Soviet champion of human rights, because he is convinced the increased harassment of Sakharov and others shows the situation is "at a nadir."

—Any trial of dissidents Pyotr Yakir and Viktor Krassin will be a "doleful repetition" of the Stalin purge trials of the 1930s. He feels that if Yakir and Krassin agreed to turn state's evidence, as reported, they have conducted themselves "basely."

"But I must say that my death will not make happy those people who count on it to stop my literary activities. Immediately after my death or immediately after I have disappeared or have been deprived of my liberty, my literary last will and testament will irrevocably come into force ... and then the main part of my works will start being published, works I have refrained from publishing all these years."

"If the officers of the KGB track down and confiscate copies of the harmless 'Cancer Ward' in all provincial cities—and fire holders of these copies from their work or drive them from higher educational institutions—what will they do when my principal and posthumous books stream out all over Russia?"

He declined to discuss in detail the unpublished "main part" of his works, especially in an apartment he believed was bugged. He turned instead to plans for publishing the remainder of the series that began with "August 1914."

He said that probably "I won't let out 'October 1916' before the third volume, 'March 1917,' is ready." The two are too closely knit and only together could explain his view of the course of events, the writer said.

Union Electric notes record

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Union Electric Co. of St. Louis has assured its customers in Missouri and Illinois that it has ample reserves of power in spite of record peak demands for electricity caused by the recent hot weather.

A company spokesman said a new record in electricity use was set Monday when the peak exceeded five million kilowatts because of the heavy use of air conditioners and other cooling equipment. The previous record of 4,870,000 kilowatts was set on Aug. 18 of last year.

The company serves the City of St. Louis, St. Louis County and parts of the Missouri counties of St. Charles, Jefferson, St. Francois and Franklin and the Lake of the Ozarks area. Union Electric also serves the cities of East St. Louis and Alton in Illinois and a small corner of southeastern Iowa.

Business news

Mrs. Ruth Carpenter, a former Sedalia now serving as union representative for IBEW Local 89, Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, has obtained an appointment with the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service and will next move to San Francisco, Calif.

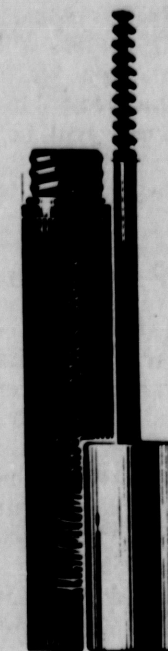

Her main task as a mediator will be to act as a "catalyst between labor and management factions, with the intention of speeding up a negotiated settlement," she said.

Mary Ann graduated from business college in June and was lucky enough to get a job in an office right away. One of the first things she did was to open a checking account at the Third, where her folks had banked for years.

The other day we noticed she had opened a savings account too. Seems she's wearing a diamond. . . and one of these days we may have to change the account to Mr. and Mrs.

How about you? Isn't it about time you started doing something about your future? Stop in. . . see why we say we're

Near tragedy results in minor injuries

A potentially tragic situation resulted in only minor injuries Monday night when two cars, one a station wagon loaded with a family of eight, collided on Highway 65, at the intersection of 65 and U.S. 52 at approximately 8:15 p.m.

According to the Highway Patrol, a car driven by Myrtle Irene Churchill, Buffalo, Mo., collided with a car driven by John Kennedy, Greeley, Colo., after the Churchill car skidded as it attempted to avoid an unknown vehicle which turned left from 65 onto 52 in front of the Churchill car.

The Churchill car was going south on 65, and the Kennedy car north on 65, behind the unknown vehicle, the patrol said. The Highway Patrol report said Mrs. Churchill braked to avoid the third car, swerved, and attempted to go between the two northbound cars. The Churchill car crossed the center line and sideswiped the Kennedy car, the report said.

Mrs. Churchill suffered possible internal injuries, and the six Kennedy children all suffered minor bumps and scrapes, according to the patrol.

The Kennedy family was enroute from Memphis, Tenn., where they had been vacationing, to their home in Colorado when the accident occurred.

The Highway Patrol said the third vehicle, identified only as a white car, continued west on 52 after the accident, apparently unaware of the accident.

Both the Churchill and Kennedy vehicles had to be towed from the scene.

Hearing date is set for stealing case

A Kansas City, Kan., man, Joseph Wiley, 56, arrested in Knob Noster Monday afternoon in connection with the theft of more than $4,000 from Larry's Apco, 1320 South Limit, Monday morning, is currently awaiting trial in the September term of Pettis County Circuit Court for allegedly stealing around $400 from the Star Service Station, Broadway and Engineer, on June 11 of this year, it was learned.

Wiley was apprehended by the Highway Patrol near Marshall Junction shortly after the theft from the Star station.

Wiley was arraigned in Pettis County Magistrate Court Tuesday morning on a charge of stealing more than $50. His preliminary hearing was set for Sept. 25 and bond was set at $1,000.

In Monday's theft, Wiley allegedly took $4,339.32 from the Apco station as the owner, Larry Foster, was on the lot servicing a truck. Foster said that when he saw a man come out of the back office of his station, he walked toward the man to find out what he was doing in the back room of the station.

"He had his hand in his pocket and told me to get back over to the gas pumps," Foster said. "I thought he had a gun in his pocket, so I stayed out of his way."

The man then reportedly got into his car at Pat O'Connor Chevrolet and drove off, at which time Foster notified police.

A car matching the description of the vehicle was reported to be heading west on Highway 50 and, a short time later, Wiley was arrested in Knob Noster by the Highway Patrol and Pettis County sheriff's officers. Foster was then taken to Knob Noster, where he identified Wiley. Wiley was brought to Sedalia and is currently confined to the Pettis County Jail in lieu of bond.

In other reports, Thaddeus Fulford, believed to be a resident of the Ft. Smith, Ark., area, was picked up in Ft. Smith by federal officers Monday on an interstate flight warrant issued by Pettis County. The warrant is in connection with an April, 1972, incident in which Fulford allegedly took a truck from Bryant Motor Co.

An extradition hearing is scheduled for Fulford, who was released by Ft. Smith authorities on $1,500 bond.

Five men are still in jail after fight

Five persons remained in the Pettis County jail Tuesday morning in connection with what was reported to be a gang fight near the south end of the grandstand on the State Fairgrounds Sunday afternoon. The fight reportedly included the use of knives.

Eleven persons were arrested by the Highway Patrol in the incident and all were arraigned in Pettis County Magistrate Court Monday morning on a total of nine assault charges and five charges of carrying a concealed weapon. Preliminary hearings for the 11 men are scheduled for Sept. 10, 12 and 13.

Those still held in jail Tuesday morning were identified as Steve E. Peterson, 23, Kansas City; John Ingold, 22, Kansas City; George Mercer, 29, Belton, Mo.; Christopher Reardon, 27, Lexington, Ky.; and Kerry Mason, 21, Grandview, Mo. All of the above named were charged with carrying or displaying a deadly weapon and three were also charged with assault.

The other six men arrested were all charged with common assault and released on bond. They are Michael Mitchell, East St. Louis, Ill.; Ronald Gasperly, 28, Kansas City; Robert M. Straub, 23, East St. Louis, Ill.; William Kirkman, Jr., 28, Kansas City; Charles Miller, 23, Kansas City; and Monte Kaiser, 39, Raytown, Mo.

In other Magistrate Court news, Mayo E. Gray, 47, 215 West Pettis, and Francis Lee DeMott, 25, Pittsburg, Kan., were both charged Monday with tampering with a motor vehicle without the owner's permission.

Gray, who was arrested Saturday, was charged with operating a car without permission while DeMott is charged with operating a tractor without permission. DeMott was arrested Saturday, in connection with operating a tractor on the Fairgrounds.

Bond for both was set at $1,000. DeMott posted bond Monday afternoon. A preliminary hearing date of Sept. 10 has been set for the two.

Danny Lee Beene, 22, Hughesville, was arraigned on a charge of assaulting a police officer. Beene posted bond of $1,000 Monday. His preliminary hearing was set for Sept. 10.

Ralph Naylor, 34, 524 West Third, was arraigned Monday morning on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. A preliminary hearing date of Sept. 11 has been set. Naylor is free on $3,000 bond.

Hospital beds are back in use now

Eleven surgical beds at Bothwell Hospital, recently closed due to a staffing shortage, were re-opened at 11 p.m. Monday according to Don Feeback, hospital administrator.

Feeback said Tuesday "staffing is adequate and we feel we will be able to keep them (the beds) open in the future."

The second floor beds were closed to use in the wake of a nursing shortage in order to reopen the intensive care unit, which was closed June 13 and reopened in the latter part of July.

"Staffing improved to permit the opening of the beds," Feeback said. "We were successful in getting people to cover some days."

Threatt

afternoon, Feb. 2, at the LaMonte apartment. He said two of his friends later took him to a dance at Whiteman AFB, where he was detained at 10:30 p.m. that day because he was not supposed to be on base. He said he was released about 11:15 p.m. and driven to the LaMonte apartment by Sgt. Emanuel Granger.

In Monday's testimony, Granger said he was asked by Whiteman security police to take Threatt to LaMonte. He said he left the accused man at the apartment, which is located near the Dairy Isle.

Tuesday Threatt said two other airmen also were along at the time. Threatt said he got back to the apartment around midnight and found "nobody there." He said the door was unlocked and the lights were on. He claimed he stayed there "all night."

Mrs. Terry Molyneux, a former LaMonte resident who was flown here from Idaho by the prosecution, testified she saw Brown's auto about 5 a.m. Feb. 3. She said the car was atop her mailbox. She also said that she did not see the car across from her house on Highway 50 when she went to bed about 2 a.m. that morning.

Her testimony caused authorities to place the time of the crime at between 2 and 5 a.m. Feb. 3.

Threatt maintained in his testimony, however, that shortly after he arrived at the apartment, Green arrived looking for Woods. Threatt said he asked Green to get him something to eat, but saw no more of him that night.

He also claimed that a short time after this four women came by the apartment and that he recognized two of them as "Janie" and "Debbie." He said he did not know the others.

When asked by Bushmann how long the girls stayed, Threatt said, "I really can't tell you that." Later in his testimony, he said they could have stayed "at least three hours," and still later, he said it "could have been as late as six, but not earlier than five." Threatt said he was "drunk when they left."

He said he fell asleep then and Green returned "a quarter after eight" and took him to a motel in Kansas City. He said he spent all day Saturday and Sunday at the motel and left at 10:30 p.m. Sunday and arrived in Cleveland on a Continental Trailways bus late Monday night, Feb. 5.

Following Threatt's testimony, Judge Kinder recessed the court until 1 p.m. He told the jurors they could find in Threatt's favor, or find him guilty of either first degree or second degree murder. If first degree murder is found, a mandatory life sentence will be imposed. Second degree murder convictions carry a penalty of 10 years in prison to life. Should the jury be unable to decide on a sentence, then that task falls to Judge Kinder.

Final arguments by both sides were to be presented at 1 p.m., with each side allowed a half hour. After that, the case goes to the jury.

Threatt was apprehended Feb. 15 in Cleveland.

Sixteen prosecution witnesses testified Monday, along with five defense witnesses. Bruce Houdek, an assistant state attorney general, assisted Pettis County Prosecuting Attorney Gary Fleming.

Houdek presented all of the prosecution's case.

In afternoon testimony Monday, Pettis County Coroner Dr. John Owens testified that Brown's body was found 75 yards north of Highway 50, tied to a tree. Owens said the tree had to be sawed in half to free the body. Owens said Brown died of exposure to the elements.

Dr. Owens testified that his Feb. 7 autopsy revealed that Brown had been dead "three days, plus or minus one-half day," at the time the autopsy was performed.

In reply to a question from Judge Kinder, Owens said it would have taken only "a matter of hours" for Brown to die from the cold, even if he was in good condition. Owens said 48 hours was the maximum he thought Brown could have survived under the circumstances.

Stephen F. McKelley, an acquaintance of Threatt, testified that he saw Threatt about 10 a.m. Feb. 3 at a Kansas City motel. He said Threatt stayed with him at the motel until 9:30 p.m. the next day. McKelley said Threatt told him he was returning to his Cleveland home by bus, and reportedly showed him $30 he would use for the fare.

Other witnesses testifying Monday were Highway Patrol officials and other investigating officers of the Major Case Squad probing Brown's death. They related procedures they followed in the investigation and evidence they processed or uncovered, including Brown's 1970 Chevelle, which was found near the spot west of LaMonte where Brown's body was first seen by Trooper Joe Dayringer.

Hughesville bonds registered Monday

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — State Auditor John D. Ashcroft signed and registered Monday school bonds valued at $280,000 for the R-5 School District in Pettis County and $65,000 for the Reorganized School District R-8 in Howell County.

The Pettis County bonds will finance additions to the Houstonia elementary school and the Hughesville High School. New classrooms will be added to the elementary school and a new kitchen, dining room, music room, showers and a multi-purpose gymnasium will be constructed at the high school.

In Howell County, the $65,000 in bonds will provide $45,000 in matching funds to expand the district's vocational education program. A driving simulator for the senior high school driver education program will be purchased for $20,000.

Funds for the Ozark Regional Commission will help finance a $130,000 vocational building on the senior high campus and to maintain a class in heavy equipment operation at the Pomona, Mo., Industrial Park.

UPS deliveries disrupted here

United Parcel Service deliveries remained suspended in the Sedalia area Tuesday, following a strike by mechanics who walked off the job in Missouri on Monday. Delivery drivers for UPS, members of the Teamsters union, have honored the mechanics' strike and are refusing to cross picket lines.

The mechanics, members of Locals 777 and 778 of the International Association of Machinists, broke off talks with UPS Sunday. The union had been without a contract since the end of June. The Teamsters drivers also are working without a contract.

Locally, UPS delivers approximately 1,100 parcels a day, according to one source. Local merchants are being allowed to pick up packages at the UPS center at 1300 West 32nd.

March of time

If Earth's total age, now estimated by geophysicists at about 4.5 billion years, is taken as a single 24-hour day, today's ocean basins are scarcely an hour old. By the same measure, the cave dwellers were hunting their prey less than a second ago; the past 500 years is but a hundredth of a second, and a 50-year working life is only one thousandth of a second.

The following persons were charged with disorderly conduct: Robert Whitworth, 213 East Second, dismissed; Tommy Kline, 212 East St. Louis, dismissed; Jack Tapp, Tulsa, Okla., dismissed.

Sedalia business illegally entered

Bunnies Barbeque, 204 South Engineer, was broken into late Sunday or early Monday for the second time in a month. Police discovered the break-in at 2:30 a.m. Monday.

A cigarette machine and a shuffleboard machine were reportedly broken into, with an undetermined amount of money taken from both, police reported. Entry was apparently gained by breaking the glass from a door on the east side of the building, and then opening the door from the outside. The police report indicated this break-in was similar to the earlier one.

James Gates, 22, Blue Moon Stables, reported to police that he was riding his bicycle north on Lamine around 10:30 p.m. Monday when three men came out of the Main Street Bar, assaulted him and took the ten-speed bicycle, valued at $105.

'Living center' for way we live

Somewhere along the line, Americans stopped living in their living rooms. Space which was costly to build now stands idle — a victim of our national love affair with the family room. It's one of several signs to indicate that housing has perhaps failed to keep pace with today's changing lifestyles.

Take the kitchen, for example. Too often it's isolated from the rest of the house, so that anyone working there feels cut off from the mainstream of family life.

Or consider the question of dual activities. How many houses are planned so that adult family members can pursue a quiet hobby, while the youngsters throw a party?

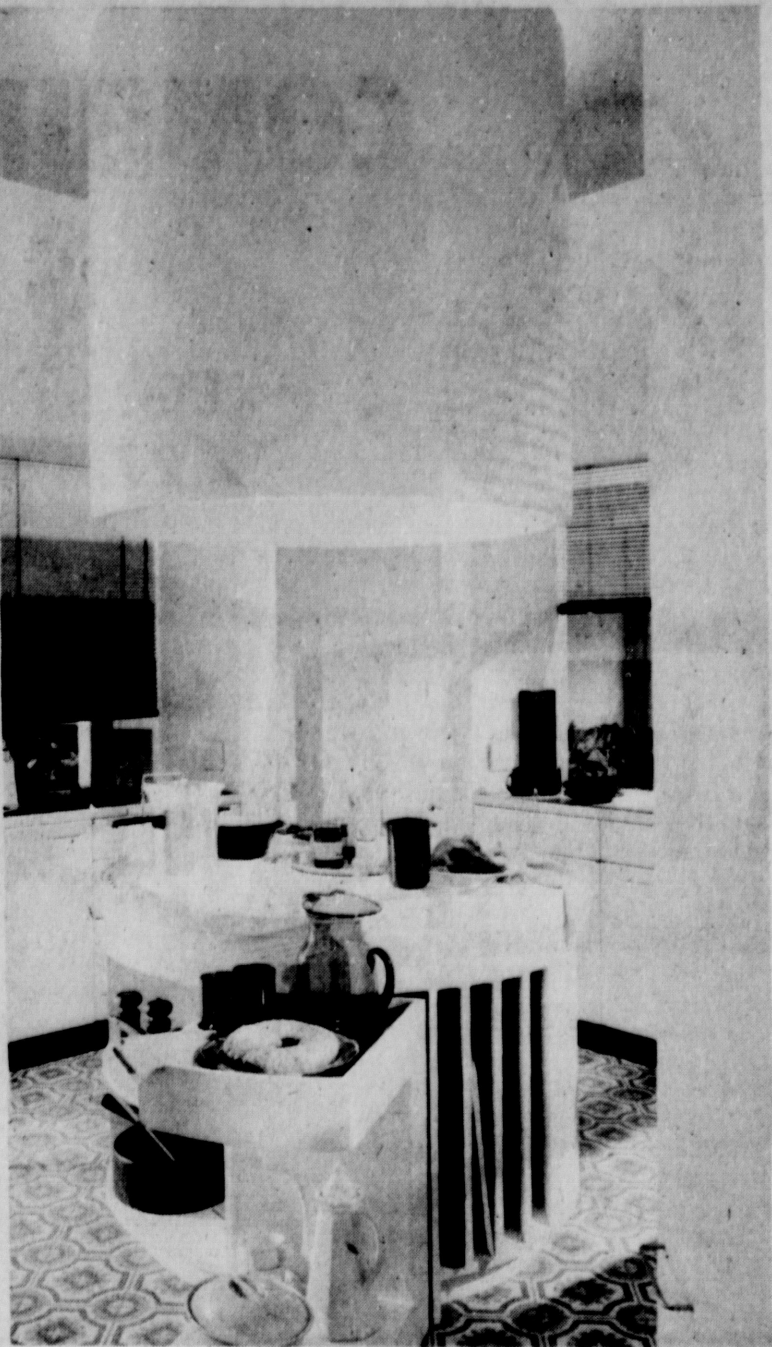

It's not that today's houses are poorly designed — far from it. Rather, it's a nagging sense result was a dramatic new concept in home interiors known as the "Living Center."

Designed by Robert A. M. Stern and John S. Hagman, New York architects, the center was constructed at interior design studios in Lancaster, Pa.

Focal point of the 1,200-square-foot plan is a dramatic circular kitchen located in the middle of the center, raised slightly above the level of surrounding areas, and turned 45 degrees to provide conversational and visual access to every other part of the house.

Also included in the plan is a versatile activities area for family hobbies, and an entertainment center with facilities for home movies, closed circuit TV and stereo. There's even a bar setup equipped with a wine cooler

Central kitchen

Focal point of the Living Center is this dramatic circular kitchen offering visual access to dining, living and recreation areas.

Aluminum siding protection tips

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I am writing about Marie's problem with washing the aluminum siding on her home. We had this put on, too. Every year I first wash it down with the hose and then, starting at the bottom, use a pail of water with a good detergent and soft cloth. After this, it is hosed down again and looks like new. — LAURA

DEAR POLLY — I learned that there are several finishes used on aluminum siding. All siding men I talked to agreed on the above for siding put on houses. Mobile homes have a harder finish and the following letter will answer the question for those living in mobile homes. — POLLY

DEAR POLLY and Marie — Our trailer is covered with aluminum siding and the manual that came with it says the following: "Protect your home from minor scratches caused by grit and grime by cleaning and waxing regularly. Use a mild detergent plus a little ammonia for cleaning. Rinse well after washing. The finish is similar to that on an automobile and should be cared for the same way. Caution: Do not use naphtha or gasoline to remove tar. Such solvents may soften the finish. Do not wax your home until at least a month after purchase. If you live near the seashore, wax every few months but elsewhere once or twice a year should be sufficient." — JOLANE

Polly's problem

DEAR POLLY — I do hope someone can tell me how to successfully remove the blood from whole chickens bought in packages in food stores. — MARY W.

blankets that are made to fit the beds when they are new, but after the first washing, have shrunk so badly that they are too small. It seems this material could be shrunk before the blankets were made and then they would stay large enough to tuck in under the mattress. I do hope the manufacturers of such products will do something about this. — MRS. G.B.J.

DEAR POLLY — I am an arthritic. To simplify some of the problems associated with such a condition I bought a 1/2-inch dowel stick about 38 inches long. In one end I screwed a brass hook that has the end bent at the right angle like those used for sash curtain rods. For several years I have been using this for all sorts of pickup jobs and for reaching objects on the backs of shelves to bring them within reach. I first thought of this when I needed something to straighten out the backs of my shoes that bent when I put them on. I cannot stoop and a long shoe horn would not work. — ALICE L.

DEAR POLLY — When cleaning windows it is hard to get all the dirt out of the corners of the grooves where the storm windows fit. I hit on the idea of wetting a cotton-tipped stick. They are just the right size to fit in these grooves. — MABEL

Newsprint shortage is having an impact

Newsprint is to a newspaper what gasoline is to a car: without it you can't operate.

Although it hasn't been as well publicized as the gas and meat shortages, the scarcity of newsprint is a growing problem. There are several factors behind the situation.

A prime one is the extremely high worldwide demand for newsprint. Another is the rather fixed production capacity of existing mills: there simply aren't enough to service all of the customers.

Things have been complicated recently by strikes at paper mills and on the railroads in Canada, from where about 70 per cent of the U.S. newsprint supply must come. There is every possibility that the strikes at the Canadian mills will spread, further compounding the problem.

The newsprint crunch has affected U.S. papers in various ways, depending upon individual circumstances. Some newspapers with virtually guaranteed supplies have felt little impact; others, especially smaller papers, are taking drastic steps in some instances to weather the shortage.

Some papers have eliminated editions; others have cut back on space allotted to comics and features. A few have shut down entirely until the situation stabilizes.

Several big dailies and virtually all smaller ones are taking a long, hard look at how they can save newsprint. The Democrat-Capital is no exception, and steps are being taken to closely control press runs, the number of news rack copies distributed, and to hold waste to a minimum.

News space on The Democrat-Capital will be "tightened" somewhat, and available columns will be utilized to include the maximum amount of news and feature material. Contemplated special sections will be closely evaluated for reader interest.

The average reader may well not detect any of these changes. We hope that the newsprint shortage will not continue very long, and that normal supplies will soon be available again. But the outlook for the next few years is not encouraging.

We thought that you, our readers, should be informed about this situation, which has confronted newspapers with conditions reminiscent of the old paper rationing days of World War II.

A conservative view

Nixon should use phone more often

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's bare-backed bout with the bronco press has to be ranked among the finest sports spectacles of the year. Last week's event was in the best bull-throwing tradition of the rodeo. Everybody got bruised but no one got badly hurt. The President won on points, but the press scored impressively, too.

The most revealing moment of the afternoon came when Nixon was trying to explain why he himself didn't communicate with government prosecutors last spring. He said that he assumed that John Dean, and later John Ehrlichman, were doing the communicating for him. Then he said:

"The President doesn't pick up the phone and call the attorney general every time something comes up on a matter. He depends on his counsel, or whoever he's given the job to."

This was the quintessential Nixon speaking: "The President doesn't pick up the phone." The sentence came out like a hiccup. It was an afterthought, a further comment that went beyond the answer he had given already; he didn't need to say it — but in that unexpected moment of truth we learned something about Nixon and why he is in the fix he is in.

It simply is not a part of Nixon's nature to "pick up the phone." Suppose, to be supposing, that Nixon's nature was otherwise. Suppose that in June of 1972, after the implications of the Watergate break-in began to emerge, the President had seized a telephone and given some orders to a White House operator:

"Get me John Mitchell on the line. Then get me Gordon Liddy. What's the Jeb Magruder's number?" In 10 seconds — the White House operators are the most efficient professionals in the world — they have John Mitchell waiting on hold. It is 10 o'clock on the morning of June 22. "John," says the President, "what the hell is going on? Give me the chapter and verse."

But history, they say, is only biography: events are no more than the lengthened shadow of men who make them. Because Nixon was Nixon, he could not "pick up the phone." He is a creature of self-discipline and established order. He goes through channels. So he rings the buzzer for Bob Haldeman. "Bob," he says, "tell John Dean to look into this Watergate business." And he turns to his morning appointments.

I have a hunch that some such scenario actually was played in the White House 14 months ago. To an extraordinary degree, Nixon "depends on his counsel, or whoever he's given the job to." Such an attitude is at once the genius and the curse of the top executive. Duties have to be delegated — of course they must be delegated! — but the rules of delegation can be obeyed to excess. Nixon depended, and he got: Watergate.

Senator Howard Baker has been digging at this aspect of the Watergate affair from the very beginning of the hearings. He has wondered aloud about the "mystique" of the presidency. Is there something in the nature of the office itself, he has asked, that drops a glass wall between a President and the outside world? Is there a sense of royal presence that stays the eager hand, or stifles the warning word?

Lyndon Johnson suffered no such inhibitions. He never hesitated, when the spirit moved him, to "pick up the phone." Harry Truman, to judge from his daughter's biography, could cut through protocol with a single salty phrase. Nixon is born of a different breed. He is a private person, reserved, restrained, tightly controlled. In their place, and to a reasonable degree, these are great qualities in a President. Nixon has earned respect for them.

Yet all the same, it might do this particular President a world of good — it might win him, not respect, but understanding and even affection instead — if more often he would break out of the shell, lose his temper, shove old Ron around, sweat, swear, weep and belly-laug like other men — and pick up the phone himself.

Art Buchwald Money can grow on trees

WASHINGTON — The age of specialization has touched every part of our society. Recently I had tree trouble, a beautiful large oak was dying, and I immediately called a tree surgeon.

Buchwald

At first he didn't want to come. "I'm sorry, I don't make house calls," he explained.

"Then I'll cut down the tree and bring it into your office," I cried hysterically.

"Don't panic. I'll come over."

Three days later he arrived. He walked over to the oak and shook his head. He touched the trunk once, looked up at the branches and said:

"You have a very sick tree here."

"I know it. What can you do to save it?"

"I don't like the look of those lower limbs."

"Neither do I," I said. "What can you do about the limbs?"

"I'm not a limb man," the tree surgeon explained. "I only do general trunk work."

"Do you know of a good limb man?"

"I know of one and I only hope for your sake he's available. That will be $25, please."

A few days later the limb man came. He was all business.

"You've got two broken limbs and a wound on your main branch. Also, I don't like those stub lesions which are bleeding sap."

"Do whatever has to be done," I said.

"I can't touch the limbs until we heal the lesions."

"Then heal them."

"I'm not a stub lesion expert. I'll give you the name of one. When he gets finished, I'll come back and work on the limbs. That will be $50, please."

The stub lesion surgeon arrived and worked for 20 minutes. Then he said, "Your tree is suffering from malnutrition. It has to be fed."

"Feed it," I begged, "and don't worry about the cost."

"I don't feed trees," he said indignantly. "You need a root man for that."

"You don't know of a root man, do you?" I asked.

"There's one out in Chevy Chase. I'll see if I can get him to come. That will be $75."

A week later the root man arrived with his drill and started operating on the oak. He poured nourishment into the ground near the roots.

"Will it be all right?" I asked him.

"The well you have around the tree is much too small. You're strangling it. I can give it all the food in the world and it won't do any good if the tree can't get any air or water."

"Then why did you feed it?" I asked.

"You told me to," he replied.

"I don't suppose you have anything to do with tree wells?" I asked.

"I should hope not. You have to get a stonemason to do your well work. No tree surgeon will touch a well."

"That's what I thought."

I finally found a stonemason who agreed to build a well around the tree for $400. It took him two days to do it and when he finally finished he said, "You know, mister, you got a real sick tree there."

"I know it," I said.

"It's none of my business, but if I was you I'd get myself a good tree surgeon."

The Human Race

Merry-go-round Hearst journalist was Chotiner 'spy'

By JACK ANDERSON and
LES WHITTEN

WASHINGTON — We can now identify the mystery man of the Watergate investigation, referred to in the Senate testimony as "Chapman's Friend," who spied on the George McGovern camp for President Nixon during the 1972 campaign.

He is the respected foreign correspondent Seymour Freidin, who covered the Battle of Berlin and later became executive foreign editor for the New York Herald Tribune. He now heads the Hearst newspapers' London office.

He was not employed by Hearst, however, while he was a political spy, but was a free-lance writer. Nor were the Hearst editors aware of his secret role until we notified them.

Not even the Senate Watergate investigators have been able to identify the mysterious "Chapman's Friend." They mistakenly thought columnist-author Victor Lasky was the spy and sent two investigators to interview him.

The code name "Mr. Chapman" was adopted during the 1972 campaign by President Nixon's veteran political aide Murray Chotiner. It was the same code name that the late Gov. Tom Dewey used to identify himself in phone calls to Dwight Eisenhower and Richard Nixon during the 1952 campaign.

As the 1972 "Mr. Chapman," Chotiner submitted secret reports on the McGovern campaign to the Nixon managers. These reports included political intelligence from two undercover correspondents who were identified only as "Chapman's Friends."

One was Lucianne Goldberg who divulged her Mata Hari role earlier this month. She traveled on the McGovern campaign plane as a book writer and free-lance contributor to North American Newspaper Alliance and Women's News Service. The other press spy, who had escaped identification until now, was the more secretive Freidin. Each collected $1,000 a week from Chotiner.

Confronted with the results of our investigation, Chotiner acknowledged that Freidin was hired by him as a "reporter" during "a portion of the Democratic primaries and a portion of the time after the McGovern nomination."

After three days of overseas calls, we located Freidin in the Mediterranean. "What I was trying to do," he said, "was to pull a Joe McGinnis." McGinnis worked for the Nixon advertising campaign in 1968 and wrote an inside account called "The Selling of the President."

Freidin said he also had intended to write an "inside book," but vigorously denied that he was a spy. "I never spied," he said. "I gave my unvarnished views which (Attorney General John) Mitchell told Chotiner were junk."

Freidin said that he submitted both verbal and written reports and that Mitchell complained to Chotiner that he had read the same information in the newspapers. Freidin said that "for a long time I took no money." His total take after he began collecting a salary, he said, amounted to $10,000 or $11,000.

FOOTNOTE: Apparently, we were among those who were duped by Freidin during the 1972 campaign. He frequently visited us and pumped us for campaign information. He also pleaded with us to give his son Joshua a chance to accompany us to Miami Beach for the Democratic convention. We paid Joshua to be a messenger and he had the run of our Miami Beach offices throughout the convention.

DUBIOUS DETERGENT: Under pressure from the soap makers, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare has promised to make a fast decision on the safety of the detergent additive NTA, even though NTA may cause cancer.

Detergents containing NTA were yanked off the market in 1970 when a growing mass of data indicated the chemical might cause cancer and birth defects. A scientific task force was set up to find out just how dangerous the chemical is.

When NTA was first introduced, Proctor & Gamble boasted it eliminated the need for phosphate in laundry powders. NTA and phosphates both get clothes clean. Phosphates, however, contribute to a process called eutrophication — the elimination of oxygen from waterways which makes it impossible for streams and lakes to support life.

In June, New York State joined Indiana and Dade County, Fla., in banning the sale of phosphate detergents. This triggered new pressure from the soapers to bring back NTA.

At a hush-hush meeting in Washington several weeks ago, HEW capitulated and agreed to give an early answer despite a gaping lack of research. For the fact is that HEW is far from completing its probe of NTA's possible pernicious effects.

"The bulk of the data will be available by early 1974," Dr. David Rall of the National Institute of Environmental Health said. "Presumably, we will be able to reach a decision then."

But sources close to the NTA evaluation have told us that scientists have yet to devise some of the tests that must be performed to ascertain how dangerous NTA may be.

Dr. Samuel Epstein of Case-Western Reserve University, one of the nation's foremost experts in the field, told us that, despite HEW's claims, researchers have made little real progress on learning the effects of NTA since the chemical was banned.

He acknowledged that private studies have been completed on NTA, but disparaged their conclusions. "It will take years to determine the cancer causing effects of NTA," he told us.

So the detergent companies are pushing the government to help their profits, whatever the cost may be in future birth defects and cancer cases.

FOOTNOTE: The return of Bryce Harlow, the on-again off-again Proctor & Gamble lobbyist, as a top White House adviser has added to the pressure on HEW. Although Harlow earnestly asserts he has divorced himself completely from his former and probable future employer's interests, government scientists still believe that Harlow was at least partly responsible for the firing of former Surgeon General Jesse Steinfeld after Steinfeld banned NTA.

A speech in 1963 helped dream become almost real

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Ten years ago, 200,000 Americans gathered at the Lincoln Memorial and heard Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s stirring "I Have a Dream" speech, a high point of the movement which brought revolutionary gains to black America.

Even as King spoke of the "manacles of segregation and the chains of discrimination," his wife Coretta and other Southern blacks worried about how they would get home from Washington. In 1963, they were barred from many public accommodations.

But progress was on the way. More than 100 congressmen heard King say in his Aug. 28, 1963, speech that he still had a vision "deeply rooted in the American dream," and a year later, a sweeping civil rights bill was passed.

In politics, the Voting Rights Act of 1965 enfranchised two million new black voters and helped elect hundreds of Southern blacks to public offices, from city commissioners to congressmen.

In 1963 there were only about 200 elected black officials. Today there are nearly 3,000 — 1,152 of them from the South.

Mississippi has more elected black officials than any state in the nation and Alabama, the scene of crucial civil rights marches, is second.

Congress has three new black members, Yvonne Burke of Los Angeles, Barbara Jordan of Texas and the Rev. Andrew Young, who was a top aide of King's. Every Southern state has at least one black state legislator, and Georgia has 16.

A substantial number of blacks have moved out of desperate poverty and expanding economic opportunities have nourished the development of a large, growing and increasingly visible black middle class.

John Lewis, who was brutally beaten in Alabama during the civil rights campaigns of the 1960s, says King's speech gave blacks "a sense of somebodiness. The black movement changed the psyche of some people, particularly in the South."

Despite the progress, however, the dream King spoke of still remains to be fully realized, his followers say.

Only five years ago, a presidential commission warned that without swift and decisive action, the United States would split into two societies, black and white, separate and unequal.

Blacks remain disproportionately poor. Nearly a third of the nation's 23 million blacks live in poverty, and the economic gap between whites is widening, according to a recent Bureau of Census report.

A government commission recently characterized federal civil rights enforcement efforts as highly inadequate and said "large-scale discrimination continues."

Jesse Jackson, who also marched with King, says:

"The main difference between '63 and '73 is that in '63 we were fighting for citizenship: the right to vote, the right to go to school, the right to live in the neighborhood of our choice."

"But every item we're fighting for now is a cost item. It costs to go to the school of your choice. It costs to live in the neighborhood of your choice. I think it is fitting that in 10 years the movement has gone from fighting for the right of survival to fighting for the means of survival."

Jackson is head of the fledgling Chicago-based organization PUSH — People United to Save Humanity.

For those millions of blacks still in dire poverty, Mrs. King says their conditions have in many ways worsened.

"They have been virtually cast aside by America," she said. "The 10 years since 1963 have only made their sweltering slums even more squalid. The range of social problems that grow from poverty when they are neglected have merely festered and worsened. For this sector of Black America, talk of progress is a cruel joke."

King said in his speech: "I have a dream that one day even the State of Mississippi, a desert state sweltering with the heat of injustice and oppression, will be transformed into an oasis of freedom and justice."

Two months earlier in Jackson, Miss., an NAACP field director, Medgar Evers, had been shot in the carport of his home.

Charles Evers, Medgar's brother, now mayor of Fayette, Miss., says, "White folks ain't quite as mean as they used to be," and predicts that "Mississippi is going ahead."

James H. Meredith, whose enrollment at the University of Mississippi precipitated riots, later moved back to his home state from New York, saying it was a better place to live.

Since King's speech, many feel the civil rights movement has become divided and weakened. The Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which King founded, has waned in influence and national prominence since his death in 1968.

"If my husband were alive today," said Coretta King, "he would look at the achievements of the years since 1963 with pride, and he would find the basis for renewed optimism."

"But he would face the years ahead with the same splendid moral outrage at the continuing stain of injustice, and the same fierce determination to end it forever, that moved America when they heard him speak on that day 10 years ago."

Many parts of state need rain

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Many parts of Missouri are reporting lack of adequate soil moisture, the Missouri Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said Monday.

The northwest, northeast, east and Bootheel sections still had adequate moisture, the service said.

There were also a few occasional shortages of fuel, but supplies were adequate in most places.

Seventy per cent of the corn was in the dough stage and 36 per cent in the dent stage. A year ago all corn was in the dough stage at this point and 70 per cent in the dent stage.

Northeast and Northwest Missouri reported excellent conditions for soybeans with the crop in fair to good condition over the remainder of the state. Sixty-five per cent of the soybeans were setting pods last week, still 16 points behind last year's crop.

Cotton is in fair to good condition with cotton bolls open on one per cent of the crop compared with three per cent a year ago.

Newsprint shortage is plaguing papers

By BARTON REPPERT
Associated Press Writer
A worsening shortage of newsprint has forced newspapers across the country to drop regular features such as comics, limit advertising, reduce news space, trim press runs and even suspend publication some days.

The shortage has been aggravated by continuing strikes at some major papermaking mills in Canada and a Canadian railroad strike that began last week. About 65 per cent of all newsprint used in the United States comes from Canada.

In Ottawa, Prime Minister Pierre Elliott Trudeau said Monday night that Parliament would be recalled to end the rail strike because "we cannot live with such disruptions any longer."

Newspapers hardest hit by the shortage have been smaller dailies without long-term contracts with paper manufacturers. However, some of the nation's largest papers are beginning to feel the pinch.

The Wall Street Journal announced on Monday that certain features would be curtailed or suspended and a "strict limit" was being placed on the amount of advertising that could be accepted.

The financial daily, with a circulation of 1.3 million, also said it was limiting newsstand sales and suspending all circulation sales promotion activity.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer, in an attempt to conserve dwindling stocks of regular newsprint, today published some editions with two of its four sections printed on pink paper that had been left over from recent holiday issues.

The Chicago Daily News has cut down space for news coverage by a page, while the Chicago Tribune has reduced its press run—the number of copies printed—and tightened waste controls.

In St. Petersburg, Fla., publishers of the Times and the Evening Independent said the newspapers were cutting back their space for news by 35 per cent and advertising space was being trimmed by 25 per cent.

The Jackson County Floridian has announced that it will suspend publication of Monday afternoon editions after Sept. 1 because of the newsprint shortage.

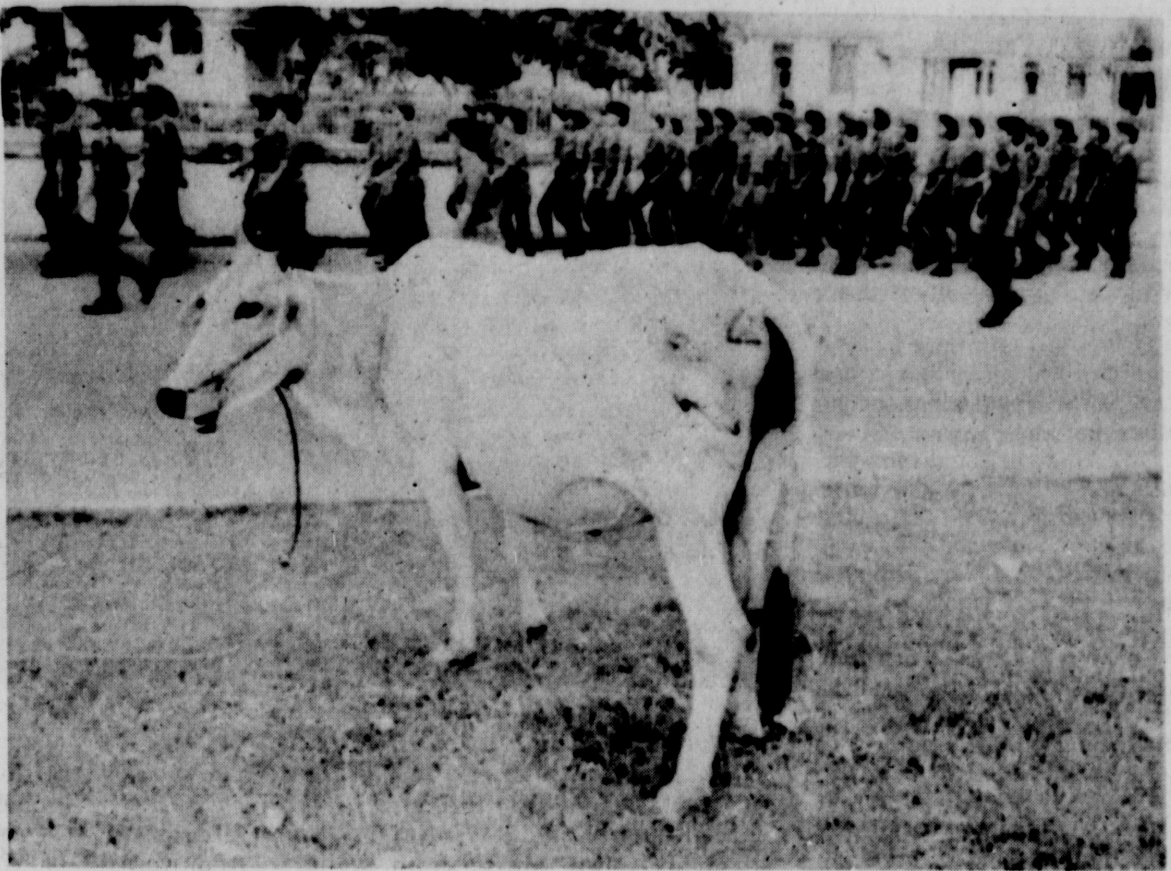

The Bellefontaine Examiner in Ohio did not publish last Saturday, missing its first issue in 82 years. Publisher T. E. Hubbard said the paper later obtained an interim stock of newsprint.

Arizona's two largest newspapers, The Arizona Republic and The Phoenix Gazette, have dropped their first editions because of the shortage.

In Wisconsin, the Wausau Record-Herald eliminated its editorial page and most comics Saturday, saying they may have to be cut out on some future days.

Other newspapers said they had not encountered much difficulty because they had stocked extra newsprint and were relying on more than one supplier.

Inchworms have legs only on the front and back segments of their bodies, which explains why they must move in their peculiar "looping" fashion.

Spelunkers rescued

JEROME, Mo. (AP) — A rescue party located two Joplin, Mo., brothers deep in a central Missouri cave late Monday and they were returned to safety today.

Both Larry John Giltner, 32, and Linn Ron Giltner, 30, were suffering from exposure and exhaustion, but otherwise were in satisfactory condition.

The men had become lost in Bruce Cave, 10 miles west of Rolla, early Sunday while on an exploring trip. Both were described as experienced spelunkers.

The rescue party, headed by Dr. James Marshall, University of Missouri-Rolla geologist, discovered the men about the time the party had planned to quit searching for the night.

Rescuers reported carbide lamps carried by the brothers had gone out, leaving them in pitch blackness in a cave described by the Missouri Geological Survey as one of the most confusing in the state.

Mrs. Linn Giltner called the Missouri Highway Patrol Monday morning to report her husband and brother-in-law missing. Their car was found near one of the cave's three entrances and a search was launched for the men.

Nenias urges its defeat

Commissioner attacks Amateur Athletic Act

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Charles M. Nenias, commissioner of the Big Eight Conference, and representatives of Kansas collegiate and scholastic athletics Monday urged the defeat of the proposed Amateur Athletic Act of 1973 which is now pending in the U.S. Senate.

Nenias said at a news conference here, "The bill which has emerged would involve federal sanctioning of many events which we believe is unnecessary. And our conference rules would become subservient to a federal board.

Brice Durbin, executive secretary of the Kansas State High School Athletic Association, read a position statement endorsed by all those connected with collegiate and scholastic athletics in Kansas. It attacked Senate Bill 2365, the proposed Amateur Athletic Act, as designed to create "a government sports bureaucracy" which would control sports in this country at all levels.

Appearing with Durbin and Nenias were athletic directors Clyde Walker, University of Kansas, Ernie Barrett of Kansas State and Ted Bredehoft of Wichita state. Don Meyer, president of the Jayhawk Junior College Conference and DeLoss Dodds, Kansas State track coach.

Nenias said the 12 U.S. senators in the six-state Big Eight area have been contacted and urged to oppose the bill.

"The bill, as proposed, would require the Kansas Relays, the Wichita State University Relays, Big Eight indoor track championships and traditional high school and junior college events to obtain sanction from a federally-licensed sports association," the position paper said.

Nenias and others said it was an unacceptable extension of the proposals to overhaul the control mechanism of U.S. amateur athletics as originally proposed in bills offered by Sens. James B. Pearson, R-Kan., and John V. Tunney, D-

Calif. Nenias and Durbin said they still wanted to see the original Pearson and Tunney proposals enacted into law.

Pearson's original bill would have set up a system for reviewing the method of selecting U.S. franchise holders in the various sports, for certifying competitors for international competition and would have insured representation on the governing bodies for the sports by all interested parties, including athletes.

Tunney's bill proposed to overhaul the U.S. Olympic Committee to broaden the representation in its makeup.

Nenias said he believes enactment of those two proposals in some form would "go a long way" toward solving the long-standing feud between the Amateur Athletic Union (AAU) and the NCAA over who should control athletics in this country.

The original Pearson and Tunney bills were incorporated into measures by Sens. Marlow Cook, R-Ky.; Mike Gravel, D-Alaska; Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.; and Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., and the new bill was reported out by the Senate Commerce Committee.

Backfield looks strong

Cook notes 'positive' attitude in S-C drills

By VAUGHN HART
Sports Editor

Ninety-five degree heat just doesn't seem to be an appropriate time to be practicing football, but with the high school grid season just a little over two weeks away, head Smith-Cotton football coach Greg Cook stands hard on his ground.

"You've got to sweat a little in this game... I know it's hard on them, but we've got an objective on our mind — winning — and you don't do that without a lot of hard work and dedication," he said prior to the Tigers' departure from the locker-room Monday afternoon.

The Bengals entered their second full week of practice Monday, with what Cook terms, "a real strong, positive attitude."

"Our (the team) attitude is much better this season," Cook said Monday. "They are working hard in practice... there's not much 'dogging' around... they are putting out a genuine effort."

Cook said he felt a good example of the positive attitude was the fact that only one player has quit since practice started Aug. 15. "This to me shows us (the coaching staff) that the attitude is swinging back toward positive football... and that's been one of my main objectives since I came here."

With the practice season a week longer than in past years (four weeks), Cook has been able to deal with the heat, slowly working into his various practice levels.

"We don't have to push quite as hard and jam in too much in too short a period of time," Cook continued. "It's a better teaching tool and the players seem to be more receptive."

The Tigers haven't suffered any major injuries, "only pulled muscles," says Cook. However, the fourth-year S-C head coach was quick to point out that not too much heavy contact work has been worked into the practice schedule.

Smith-Cotton will field the most returning backfield starters of the four teams in the Central Missouri Conference. In addition, they picked up a starter from the Lebanon backfield in transfer Dane Henningsen, giving Cook the most experienced backfield in the league.

Although Paul Kostopolus started most of the game last year at quarterback, Cook is leaning more to junior signal-caller Rick McRoy, who lettered as a sophomore.

"We are still working toward our goal of 22 starters," Cook pointed out. "In addition to being a fine quarterback, Paul is one of the best defensive backs in the league... he's also an unselfish ball player."

For those reasons, McRoy is at the present time, the No. 1 quarterback.

"It's not that he beat out Paul by any means... both are of equal ability offensively... but with our goal of 22 positions for 22 different starters, Paul will fit in perfectly on defense," says Cook.

Cook noted that the unique quarterback situation affords the team good depth at that position.

Henningsen and Jim Vansell are currently the first-string halfbacks, with returning starter Marvin Spruell right on their heels. Spruell is nursing a slight ankle injury and will throw the two positions into a three-way battle when he's back at full speed.

Mike Boggs is back at fullback and will work some at halfback says Cook.

Rich Loftus, who lacks size but is long on determination, has impressed Cook in the backfield.

"He did an outstanding job in our scrimmage last week running back-up to Boggs at fullback," Cook added.

"We've got the best overall backfield this year since I've been here," Cook commented. "In the past, we had one or two outstanding backs, but this year we've got balance and a lot of experience."

Returning starters on the line include Mark Williams (guard) and Dan Knievel (tackle). Pete Kostopolus, who quit the team in the middle of the 1972 season is also back and will team with Williams at the other tackle slot.

DeWayne Stratman, who played mostly junior varsity last year, is the front-runner for the other guard position.

"We know he can do the job, although he hasn't had a lot of varsity experience. He's big enough (175) and handles himself as a senior, although he's just a junior," Cook pointed out.

Center and the offensive ends are Cook's biggest problems at the moment on offense. Senior Bill Schlobohm has been working with the first unit, but Cook noted that the position was not confirmed for anyone at the present time.

As to the ends, Cook says he's looking for the two best blockers.

"We've got a lot of candidates, but the two who will earn the starting roles will be the two who show me they can block the best."

Among those in the running at the present time are junior Harry Browder, who played as a freshman, but skipped his sophomore year. Two others who didn't play last season are Aaron Johnson and Keith Grey. The fourth player vying for a starting spot is Larry Miley, who played junior varsity ball in '72.

Moving to New Jersey

Bradley plans to run for Congressional seat

MORRISTOWN, N.J. (AP) — Bill Bradley, the New York Knickerbocker basketball star, reportedly will move to northern New Jersey and run for Congress as a Democrat against Rep. Joseph Maraziti, R-13th.

Informed Democratic sources said Monday that despite the Republican tradition of Maraziti's district, Bradley, who now lives in New York City, has wide recognition here because of the Knicks.

Bradley, the starting 6-foot-5 forward of the 1973 world champion Knicks, declined to comment specifically on the possibility, but he added:

"I've signed a one-year contract with the Knicks now for the past three years. Basketball has been my life and I intend to play as long as I care for it, or until something else is available which appeals to me more."

"But it's no secret I'm interested in politics, and as far as New Jersey is concerned, I probably have more friends and contacts there than anywhere else. I have to settle somewhere soon; my home now really is in the fuselage of an airplane, and New Jersey may be a natural for me."

The district, which Maraziti himself carved out when he helped draw the reapportionment map while a state senator, covers five counties. Four of them, Morris, Hunterdon, Sussex and Warren are for the most part rural and Republican, while Mercer leans to the Democrats.

Bradley, who hails from Missouri, lived in New Jersey, of course, while attending Princeton University, and he spent six years in the Air Force Reserve at McGuire Force Base.

He has lived in Manhattan since joining the Knicks seven years ago.

Riggs campaigns for 'men'

NEW YORK (AP) — "I love women," said Bobby Riggs. "In the bedroom and the kitchen... in that order."

"I just don't like women's lib because it broke up my marriage. You know, I don't want to be Mrs. Bobby Riggs... the kids are grown... I want to find out who I am..."

Bobby Riggs' image as the super-confident superstar of the women's tennis circuit seemed to crack.

He made a gallant attempt to patch it with his glib tongue.

"It's popular to be against women's lib, isn't it? You have to be against something. I'm just protecting my fellow man who doesn't have my confidence."

"Billie Jean King is a woman's libber. But when I get through with her she just might go home and stay there and start raising a family."

"That's where women should be. Barefoot and pregnant. Then they can't get out."

Riggs reportedly made a minimum of $12,500 from his Mother's Day match against Margaret Court, plus keeping the $5,000 he put up for what he termed "the one-sided fiasco."

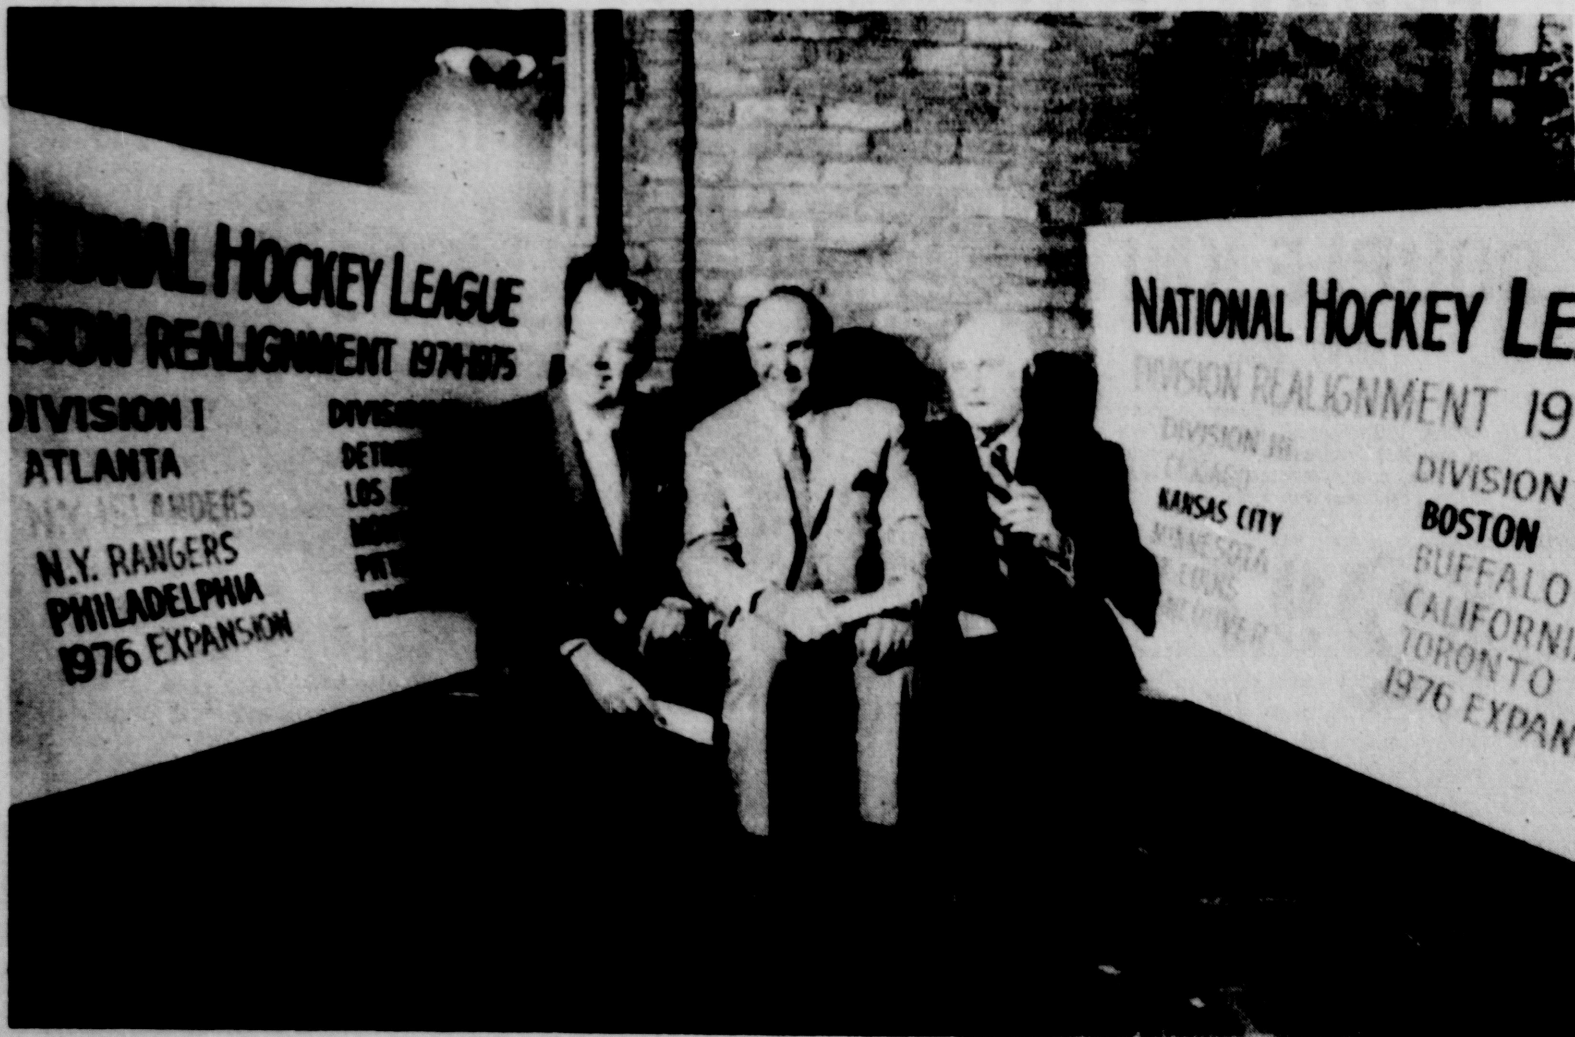

In his Sept. 20 match against Mrs. King, both players are guaranteed $100,000 with another $100,000 for the winner. And the endorsement offers keep flowing in.

But what if the tide changes? At first, Bobby's sure it won't.

"I'm going to turn her everything down on paper. Billie Jean should win, but I make up for it by psyching women before the match. I'm going to psych her right out of her socks before she ever gets on the court."

But mention the fact that the match, to be televised nationally by ABC from the Houston Astrodome, is the best-of-five sets, and Bobby's confidence fades.

"The last time I went five sets was 30 years ago. Five sets! I'll be killed. If I don't beat her in three sets, she'll have a great advantage."

NHL Realignment

realignment of the NHL into four divisions for the start of the 1974-75 season. Two more clubs are to be added at the outset of the 1976-77 season. Under the new plan, Kansas City would be in Division III with Chicago, Minnesota, St. Louis and Vancouver.

Announce NHL expansion

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Hockey League stands just one step behind the federal government after an announcement Monday of its own version of Phase Three, another gauntlet tossed at the rival World Hockey Association.

At a news conference, NHL President Clarence Campbell, William Jennings, head of the league's expansion committee, and Bruce Norris, chairman of the Board of Governors, announced that the league will add two franchises for the 1976-77 season. The latest additions were cited as "the first step of Phase Three" of the league's long-range expansion plan.

Phase One was completed with the admission of Atlanta and the New York Islanders last season, and Phase Two with the admission of Kansas City and Washington for the 1974-75 season. The NHL's first expansion took place in 1967-68, when six teams were added to the original list of six. For the start of the 1970-71 campaign, two more franchises were added.

The two expansion clubs will be added to Divisions I and IV in 1976-77, bringing each to a strength of five teams.

Campbell said a prime consideration will be "economic stability." And he added that Denver, Phoenix, San Diego and Seattle all are possibilities from the six-member WHA.

Campbell said after the admission of Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, Minnesota, Oakland and St. Louis in 1967-68, "we have systematically followed our long-range plan. In 1971 we announced that it was self-evident that the NHL must expand to at least 24 teams in North America during the 1970s and we feel we are very much on target."

Campbell stressed that there is "definitely no possibility of merger with the World Hockey Association. He expressed no concern over defections by NHL players to the WHA, noting that of the 26 players who have gone over, "only 12 or 13 ever played on NHL ice."

However, he did concede that the older circuit "may have no alternative but to return to its old age limit of 18" when it comes to the signing of junior hockey players. The WHA has been taking players at this level away from the NHL. "But," Campbell stressed, "we will have to make sure we don't go overboard in feeling that 18-year-olds are as good as 20-year-olds, for such certainly is not the case."

A meeting of an NHL action committee will be held Wednesday in Toronto to consider such a possibility.

Roberts fired; North elevated

NEW OREANS (AP) — It was cutdown day in pro football, and the biggest cut of all came late Monday night when John Mecom Jr., owner of the New Orleans Saints, announced the release of head coach J. D. Roberts.

Saying the move was made "with my sincere regret, much regret," Mecom announced that Roberts was being replaced by John North, the Saints' offensive coordinator and wide receiver coach.

"Certainly no one in pro football has ever worked harder than Coach Roberts did in changing the complete structure of our football team," Mecom said. "His task might have been an impossible one, but his efforts have never slackened, as he turned to young players to build a winner."

"It required a great deal of courage for a man to undertake and continue with the very difficult assignment in face of almost constant outside criticism."

Roberts, 40, who was in the final year of a three-year contract, became head coach for the Saints midway through the 1970 season. The Saints, an expansion team created in 1967, completed under Roberts a 21-1 season in 1970, were 4-8-2 in 1971 and 2-11-1 again in 1972, finishing last in the NFC West each time.

They had lost all four 1973 preseason games.

North, a 51-year-old native of Gilliam, La., was graduated in 1948 from Vanderbilt University, where he played end on the football squad. He played with the Baltimore Colts for three seasons and entered coaching in 1954 with Tennessee Tech. He went to Kentucky in 1956, then to Louisiana State University as an offensive coach in 1962 and joined the Detroit Lions in 1965 for eight years as receiver coach.

He came to the Saints this year.

The others cut Monday were all players, as pro football teams scrambled to get down to the 49-man roster limit.

The axe came down with authority at the camp of the Los Angeles Rams, where offensive guard Allan Graf and 11 other players fell victim. Graf, from the University of Southern California, had played in the College All-Star game.

Cardinals need 14 to top Astros

HOUSTON (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals topped the Houston Astros 6-3 in 14 innings Monday night to raise their lead over second-place Pittsburgh to two games in the National League East.

Los Angeles lost to Montreal 4-0 and had its lead in the NL West cut to 3½ games over Cincinnati, which did not play.

Nick Eddy, a star running back at Notre Dame who had been plagued by injuries throughout his seven pro years, was one of 11 men placed on waivers by the Detroit Lions.

And before the firing of Roberts, the Saints announced the cuts of Wayne Dorton, Richard Watkins, Gary Arthur and Drew Buie to make the 49-man limit.

Some players were more fortunate—they were traded to other clubs on the frantic day of wheeling and dealing.

The Washington Redskins picked up wide receiver Bill Malinchak in exchange for two draft choices, then placed on waivers quarterback Charlie Richards, punter Dave Beverly, linebacker Eddie Sheats and six others.

The Miami Dolphins put center Chuck Bradley and running back Eddie Jenkins on the injured reserved list, rendering them inactive for the entire season. Then they waived kicker Jeff White and defensive end Ron Fernandez and placed defensive end Ron Burger on the futures list—making it unlikely that he will see action, either.

Pittsburgh rookie linebacker Gail Clark was traded to the Chicago Bears in exchange for veteran wide receiver Bob Wallace. The Steelers, 1-3 after Sunday's embarrassing loss to the New York Giants, also cut four players.

Butch Henry takes job at So. Illinois

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Orville "Butch" Henry III, 24, service bureau director of the Big Eight Conference, has been appointed sports information director at Southern Illinois University.

Athletic Director Doug Weaver announced Monday that Henry, a native of Little Rock, Ark., and graduate of the University of Arkansas, will assume his duties Sept. 4. He succeeds Glen Stone who resigned to accept a similar position at Kansas State University.

Classes open in Big 8; drills down to one a day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Classes began at many Big Eight Conference schools Monday and football drills were cut to a single session daily in those camps.

A bit of bad news was confirmed at Kansas, where Coach Don Fambrough learned that backup sophomore quarterback Scott McMichael had suffered a broken collarbone in Sunday's scrimmage. He will be out at least six weeks.

Jud Mitchell, son of former KU Coach Jack Mitchell, was moved up to second-string quarterback behind Dave Jaynes, with freshman Tom Krattle moving in behind Mitchell.

Missouri Coach Al Onofrio said films of the Tigers' scrimmage Saturday confirmed his club was hitting well, but the execution was poor. He said there was still some lack of concentration. Onofrio then sent his players through a 2½-hour workout.

Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne said he was elevating Wonder Monds into the monster back slot on the top defensive unit. He said the move was based on Monds' speed, height and leaping ability demonstrated in Saturday's scrimmage. Quarterback Dave Humm and fullback Maury Damkroger, slowed by injuries, returned to practice in full pads but neither was at top speed.

Kansas State Coach Vince Gibson termed Monday's workout the "poorest practice of the year." He said he didn't know whether it was because the Wildcats had begun classes Monday or just that his charges were tired and sore after Saturday's scrimmage in 100-plus temperatures.

Oklahoma State broke its squad into upper and lower classmen Monday, then went through a snappy workout which pleased Coach Jim Stanley. He said he and his staff were pleased with the club's progress to date.

Stanley and his coaches graded players after viewing films of Saturday's scrimmage. He said there were a lot of mistakes, "but they were aggressive mistakes and I was real proud of the way our players performed."

Coach Eddie Crowder worked his Colorado Buffaloes on the running game and short pass patterns Monday in the first controlled scrimmage of the practice season.

Missouri Legion team ousted

MOOREHEAD, Minn. (AP) — Joel Zilka and Pat Carney supplied the punch Monday as Minnesota American Legion baseball champion Richfield, won its way into this week's American Legion Championship with a 9-3 win over Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Zilka fanned 12 and scattered nine Missouri hits to post his second tournament victory, while Carney drilled three singles that produced as many rbi.

Richfield, now 36-5, will meet West Hartford, Conn., in the national tourney opener later this week.

Threaten to bar top players from U.S. Open Tennis play

NEW YORK (AP) — Professional tennis was plunged into its second major controversy in less than two months Monday, when as many as 20 top pros—including Wimbledon champ Billie Jean King and Australian star John Newcombe—were faced with being barred from the U.S. Open.

The pros could be ruled ineligible to compete in the Open, scheduled to begin Wednesday at Forest Hills, as late as "one minute before they step on the court for their first match," according to officials of the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Ken Garrett out for 6-8 weeks

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis football Cardinals are making preparations for their game Saturday against the Chicago Bears at Chicago.

A spokesman for the team said the Cardinals, who held meetings and a light workout Monday, will be without the services of rookie running back Ken Garrett for 6-8 weeks. Garrett, an eighth-round draft choice, suffered a broken right foot in a preseason game against the New York Jets in St. Louis Saturday night, the team said.

The players could face suspension from the tourney as a result of having signed contracts with the fledgling World Team Tennis organization. The International Lawn Tennis Federation, which governs the U.S. LTA, has announced that players would face suspension if they enter tournaments not sanctioned by the international federation. WTT play—scheduled to begin in May—could come under that label.

And, if it is so ruled, the Open might commence without big name stars like Mrs. King, who has signed with the Philadelphia franchise; Newcombe, who has signed with Houston; Linda Tuero, who agreed to terms with Minnesota, and others whose signings have yet to be announced.

The ban of Yugoslavian star Nikki Pilić from the Wimbledon tournament in June had caused a controversy. In sympathy with Pilić's cause, 70 members of the Association of Tennis Professionals boycotted the tournament. It wasn't immediately known if the similar suspension of the stars at the Open would bring about the same reaction.

In fact, plans for suspension weren't made clear. Walter E. Elcock, the President of the USLTA said, "I don't think there's any possibility of a ban at the moment."

"Where the real problem could come is next spring if these players enter unsanctioned tournaments (like WTT play)." The question of suspension arose when Miss Tuero—a Wightman Cup member—was warned by the USLTA about signing with the WTT Minnesota Bucks.

Few problems on offense

New York Giants bank heavily on improved defense in 1973

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Giants, who ranked 18th defensively in the 26-team National Football League last season, should improve in 1973—and therein hinges their chances for a shot at the National Conference's Eastern Division title.

The defense, attacked in the past for lack of a potent pass rush and adequate tackling ability, made an impressive rebound last season and has improved even more now.

Defensive end Jack Gregory, who sacked opposing quarterbacks 21 times last year—three more than the entire defense in 1971—will spearhead the attack. With Carter Campbell, a fourth-year man, also on the line, along with tackles Dan Goich and John Mendenhall, the improved Giants could give the Washington Redskins and Dallas Cowboys a run for the top in the East.

Offense should not be a problem, with running back Ron Johnson—returning from a club record-breaking season—and quarterback Norm Snead combining to lift the Giants near the NFL's No. 1 spot in offense.

Snead was the top signal-caller in the league last year, completing 196 of 325 passes for a 60.3 percentage and 17 touchdowns.

With pass-catchers like wide receivers Don Herrmann, Rich Houston and Bob Grim—plus Johnson, who took time out from carrying the ball long enough to catch 45 passes—New York could well retain their offensive championship.

Behind Johnson and fullbacks Charlie Evans and Vin Clements are a number of fast, young runners, including Rocky Thompson and Joe Orduña.

The defensive secondary remains a question mark, with Willie Williams and Pete Athas at the corners and Richmond Flowers and Spider Lockhart at the safeties. Each picked off four passes last season, but the secondary was burned frequently in key situations.

In front of the secondary are Pat Hughes, Jim Files and John Douglas at linebacker. No. 1 draft choice Brad Van Pelt or tough Ren Horsby might bump one of the veterans.

Rich Glover, Nebraska's Outland Trophy winner as the nation's premiere lineman, is being tried at defensive tackle even though, at 6-1 and 240 pounds, most pro scouts figure he'd be better at linebacker.

Ron Johnson rumbled his way to 1,182 yards last year, third in the league and second only to Washington's Larry Brown in the NFC. Evans had eight fine games in 1972 before breaking a leg and has been held out of the early preseason games, in which Clements has sparkled.

The men who open the holes for them on the offensive line are tackles Willie Young and Joe Taffoni, guards Dick Enderle and Doug Van Horn and centers Greg Larsen and Bob Hyland.

As the Giants move out of Yankee Stadium for the Yale Bowl, their temporary base before moving to a new home in New Jersey, the prospects look solid for at least a wild-card invitation to their first NFL playoff or championship game appearance since 1963.

Ann Landers

Sometimes silence is just plain yellow

Dear Ann Landers: I can't stand bigots who make downgrading remarks about certain ethnic groups. But I find myself reluctant to say anything for fear of starting an argument or incurring the wrath of a person I don't know well.

I belong to a minority group but one would not know it by looking at me. Occasionally someone will say something unflattering about my people and I feel a little guilty remaining silent. My husband says my restraint is a sign of good manners. What do you say? — Quiet In Maryland

Dear Q: Silence isn't always golden. Sometimes it's just yellow.

Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Exercise, diet to eliminate pot

Dear Dr. Lamb — I have a high basic metabolism as my weight says constant regardless of the food I eat. I am 6-foot, 2-inches and weigh 189 pounds. I have a pot on me like a moose due to the massive quantities of beer that I have consumed during the past five years. Would you please suggest to me a method by which I can remove my pot belly.

Dear Reader — The first step in removing your pot belly is to remove yourself from the bar stool or the source of your "massive quantities of beer."

Even though you are 6-foot, 2-inches and weigh 189 pounds, I have no real way of knowing whether you are fat or skinny. Some tall people are really bean poles and others shouldn't weigh so much. There is a general tendency to think that a tall person can carry a lot of weight. This isn't always the truth. The only way to know for sure is to examine how much fat there is underneath the skin. If you've got a roll of fat around the small of the back or around your waist or any degree of a spare tire, meaning fat under the skin, you are too fat, regardless of your height.

A second cause of a "pot like a moose" is loss of abdominal muscle tone. Exercising the abdominal muscles isn't easy and a lot of our daily activities do nothing to maintain their strength and tone. Walking, for example, on level ground doesn't involve contraction of the abdominal muscles. Sitting at a desk, bar stool or in front of the TV doesn't involve the abdominal muscles. A great deal of yard work doesn't involve the abdominal muscles.

Because our daily life activity doesn't involve the use of the abdominal muscles very much, it's often necessary to institute a set of exercises that will help in this regard. The two that I most commonly recommend are sit-ups, which help to strengthen the tone of the upper abdominal muscles, and leg lifts, which help to strengthen the tone of the lower abdominal muscles. Most people know how to do sit-ups so I won't dwell on those here, except to say that those who are strong enough should learn to do their sit-ups with the knees bent, rather than the legs straightened out. This will put more load on the upper abdominal muscles rather than using the muscles that bend the hips themselves.

It's the exercises for the lower abdominal muscles that are most often neglected. These are done by laying flat on the floor. Then, lower the heels back to the floor. By repeated lifting and lowering the heels in this way you put a load on the lower abdominal muscles. You can vary these exercises by spreading the feet, once the heels are both off the floor, then bringing the feet back together and returning the feet to the floor. Combinations of these kinds of exercises help to strengthen the lower abdominal muscles.

I suspect from your brief comment that you're going to need to do some exercises of this sort to help. Remember, if you've got fat stored in the abdominal cavity, and many people who eat too much do, it's going to be difficult to reduce the size of that old pot until you get it emptied out and that means losing fat internally.

Governors say Nixon adding to problem

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Democratic governors say President Nixon is causing a further deterioration in public confidence in government with his charges that other administrations used wiretaps and burglaries.

Pennsylvania Gov. Milton Shapp said Nixon's tendency to blame an assortment of other people for preventing his learning the truth about Watergate also has worsened the situation. Shapp said Nixon compounded the cynicism about his administration by defending its wiretaps and burglary and by leveling blanket charges that previous administrations did the same.

"That kind of defense is ruinous to the whole political process," said Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan. "It reflects badly on all of us."

Asked if he believed Nixon when he said he didn't plan or cover up the Watergate scandal, Gilligan said:

"I believe the President, in the sense he didn't tape the door (of the Democratic National Committee at the Watergate office building) or tell them how many bugs to plant. But, if he does not accept the blame for it, then who is to blame? Someone is responsible for this conspiracy.... Who accepts the authority for it?"

Republican governors here for the executive committee meeting and workshops of the National Governors Conference generally praised Nixon's recent press conference and speech.

But GOP Govs. Daniel Evans of Washington and William G. Milliken of Michigan said they hoped Nixon would voluntarily make public taped conversations he had with key aides about Watergate.

Evans said he still is confident that, when the court rulings are in, Nixon will voluntarily make public the tapes, especially if the courts rule in his favor and say that his executive privilege protects them.

Gov. Patrick J. Lucey, a Wisconsin Democrat, renewed his appeal for Nixon to resign, the only governor on record to do so.

Hearing on St. Louis crash begins

ST. LOUIS (AP)—About 25 persons are expected to testify at a National Transportation Safety Board hearing into the July 23 crash of an Ozark Air Lines plane in St. Louis County.

The public hearing, which began today in St. Louis, is attempting to determine the cause of the crash that killed 38 of the 44 persons aboard the plane when it went down during a heavy thunderstorm about three miles short of the runway at Lambert St. Louis International Airport.

Among those expected to testify at the hearing is the pilot of the plane, Capt. Arvid L. Linke, 37, of St. Charles, Mo. Linke, who was badly injured in the crash, was quoted shortly after the accident as saying he believed the plane had flown through a tornado and was struck by lightning on the approach to the airport.

Linke's attorney said later, however, that the pilot was "pretty much in the dark as to what happened."

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you will publish this rebuttal of S.S.'s comment about the Doberman pinscher: "True to the breed — unpredictable and vicious."

Our Doberman is affectionate and obedient. He's a good watchdog (with two barks: fierce for strangers and a perfunctory "woof woof" for friends and neighbors).

He loves children and knows he can't play with a two-year-old the same way he plays with a 10-year-old. When we argue, he sits in one spot and looks perfectly miserable.

There is so much prejudice in this world — let's not extend it to dogs. I'm sure there are plenty of vicious Dobermans around but there are vicious Great Danes, German shepherds and boxers as well.

When we walk our dog (on a leash, heeling) some mothers will snatch up their children and say, "Watch out, darling. That's a killer dog."

Incidentally, someone should tell S.S.'s husband that dog experts insist no private citizen should try to train a dog to attack. It can lead to disaster. — A Boston Doberman Lover

Dear Lover: If there's any room in the doghouse, tell Rover to move over. Of course, you are right. Thanks for the letter.

Dear Ann Landers: You are wrong. To have a brown-eyed child, at least one of the parents must have brown eyes because the gene producing brown eyes is dominant.

My authorities are: J. E. Wodsdale, General Zoology, (Wm. C. Brown Co., 1963), C. A. Ville, Biology, (4th Ed. Saunders, 1962), D. Marsland, Principles of Modern Biology, (Holt and Rinehart, 1964).

What is YOUR authority, Ann Landers? — Assistant Prof. Of Genetics Who Wishes To Remain Anonymous Although I Am Signing This Letter.

Dear Professor: I will, of course, respect your wish for anonymity. First because you requested it, and second because I would not humiliate you by pointing out that your literature is woefully out of date. You are wrong.

My authority is Dr. Carl Witkop, former head of the Genetics Branch of The National Institutes of Health in Bethesda, Maryland.

Dr. Witkop says: "In the early days of genetics it was believed that the eye color was determined by a single pair of genes. We now know that this is incorrect and that eye color is transmitted by at least three genes. In the vast majority of cases, two blue-eyed parents will produce a blue-eyed child. But it is now an established fact that two blue-eyed parents can produce a brown-eyed child."

Your apologies are accepted.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers' booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How To Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to this newspaper.

Keep informed about the local happening's with a subscription to The Sedalia Democrat or Capital.

Every student away at school appreciates the news from home...it's a sure cure for the "homesick" blues. It lets them know who went into service, who is engaged, who got married, who won the ball game, and all the other happenings at home. A student subscription to the Democrat-Capital is the best substitute for a "letter from home" each day...and who can write all the news contained in these newspapers. It's a "must" for those going away to school.
